

Collaboration

Working collaboratively is not new to Guide Dogs, and we take our responsibility to professional and effective collaboration seriously in order to maximise our impact in supporting people with a vision impairment. We are members of The Institute for Collaborative Working and use the ISO44001(BS11000) Relationship Management methodology to inform our collaborative working.

Through collaboration, we create an ability to influence society and business in making inclusive virtual and real environments for everyone. We will collaborate to deliver a service, to raise awareness, to develop new products, services etc. Guide Dogs is careful when collaborating with others that our mission and values are not compromised. If there is any possibility that our values may be placed in jeopardy, we will withdraw from any such activity or relationship.